Our Club's Official Opening

On Friday 22 May the Royal Victorian Motor Yacht Club saw the official opening of our completed Clubhouse.

Around 150 people, comprising members, guests, kindred club officials, local police and navy officers attended the opening by His Excellency the Honourable Alex Chernov AC QC, Governor of Victoria. The Governor gave a n outstanding address outlining the club and its long history of community involvement and congratulated members in creating such a wonderful clubhouse. The Member for Gellibrand, Mr Tim Watts MP was in attendance and was impressed with the scale and the view available to members from the new building.

The day was a complete success thanks to the great planning by the Hon Secretary Don Healy, Jarmila Dakic and the Mariners.

Bright and shiny awards night

This years Awards night not only acknowledged the winners of the NavRally series, but also recognised our long-term members.

The usual suspects were up on the podium this year but, in a very different order.

Cameron Simpson continued to do well in all events but it was Bob Battye and Tony Cesarello who took top honours.

Chris and Ben Ackerman also bagged a bit of the silverware and were right on the heels of the top contenders. In the last few rallies, Casa Verde managed to score top marks, but it wasn't enough to topple the consistent ratings of Eventide.

Next years season may bring another set of winners, but we can say that this years boating season saw a record number of entries and participation. Congratulations to John Zammit who managed to entice, cajole and perhaps even shanghai crews out on the water.

What's in a name?

'She got the house', 'In the office', 'Mr Sea', do you ever wonder how these boat names have come about? In this series we look at the boats in the club and how they got their title!

Sitting close to the clubhouse is a little clinker, 'By Golley'. Many of you may have seen the name and wondered why golly was spelt incorrectly, surely because the owner has difficulty with spelling. But there is another reason.

The little clinker was built by a South Australian Shipwright, in the 50's, in Adelaide. Some were Clausen, Mitchcraft, Dealtry, Mcfarlane, Porter, and lastly Golley. Jim Golley built many of these runabout hulls- an open boat with windscreen and coaming, and a half cabin version.

By Golley was saved from imminent destruction by Shipwright Wayne Rosenzweig at retirement. The slowly deteriorating little boat was sitting for years at the Royal South Australian Yacht Club until Wayne learnt that she was being removed and cut up.

Wayne rescued her and stored her in the shed until he could plan the restoration. The deck was totally collapsed and rotten, 6 planks were split and needed replacing, 10 ribs were broken while the transom needed a complete refit. All the copper rivets were ground off and punched out, allowing the old planks to be removed and re-scribed.

Broken ribs were removed and new ones made of Kauri and stem bent into place. Planks were re-fastened using copper nails and roves (copper washer) the end of the nail is then cut off and the excess is riveted over with a small hammer and dolly.

Two full length 100x50 hardwood longitudinal bearers were through bolted, which formed the engine beds and grounds for the cockpit sole. New timber deck beams were fitted, and 10mm marine ply deck epoxy glued and screwed on top. New hardwood chafing battens were steam bent around the hull then screwed and glued. The cabin sides were made from Philippine mahogany to the original Golley style, and the cabin top of 6mm marine ply epoxy glassed over.

She was named 'By Golley' by Mr Rosenzweig as a tribute to the original builder and was relaunched in the Port River in September 2011, 50 years after her first launching.

In April, 2012, she was towed by road to Port Vincent for the Wooden Boat Festival, which is a bi-annual event alternating with Goolwa. The weekend started with a meet and greet at the bowling club and a parade around the bay on Saturday morning. Another parade was scheduled in the afternoon from the marina to the beach, a 25kt northerly wind and heavy rain caused it to be cancelled.

A big crowd at the Stansbury Markets saw the parade held on the foreshore and along the Esplanade, where 'By Golley' was judged 'Best Restoration' on the weekend.

Jim Golley is now 94, he often said 'we are just custodians of our timber boats'.

From the (Past) Commodore's Deck

Dear Members,

This edition of Propeller marks the end of my two terms as Commodore. Although there is a little sadness on my behalf I am now able to spend a bit more time with my family and on my business. These last two years have been a demanding and rewarding journey.

The club's redevelopment has reshaped my understanding of the club's core values. Co-ordinating and implementing a project of this size, roughly $4 million, is often handled by an organisation of at least 20 full time professionals over the course of the project. We have managed to do that with the commitment of volunteers, members who have jobs and business that take up most of their time and are still able to give time and resources for others to enjoy.

The opening by His Excellency the Honourable Alex Chernov AC continues the tradition of the club, capitalising on the opening of the original clubhouse in 1956 by Lady Dallas Brooks, the wife of the then Governor of Victoria, Sir Reginald Alexander Dallas Brooks.

We have, in part, been able to be secure this honour because of the club's historic ties with the Royal Australian Navy. Our dedication and commitment to the service of others in times of crisis has become an attribute of club members.

We have earned the trust and respect of Victorian government and the honour cements our position, not just as a sporting association, but as a integrated community member.

Over the course of this year I have had the enormous benefit of a great committee. The support of Vice Commodore Chris Ackerman and Rear Commodore John Zammit has been priceless, they have managed to give sage advice and unrelenting contribution under demanding circumstances. Legal issues continued to occupy time and resources during my term, and as Commodore I have been conscious of applying discipline and compassion to club culture, emphasising the need to create harmony and respect among all sections in our membership. The overall support from members and committee has been outstanding, our club is realising an open environment for debate and opinion providing a robust tapestry of harmonious values.

This term also highlights the enormous effort of the sub-committees. Our works department headed by Vice Commodore Chris Ackerman has been a stalwart in managing the transition from our old clubhouse to the new facility. Do you remember? The demolition, our temporary clubhouse managed by Terri, the solitary confinement of Jarmila in the portable...the effort has been monumental!

The marinas, communications and treasury sub-committees have surpassed expectations, the hospitality sub-committee headed by Greg Miles has indeed been targeted for special recognition. The current catering is directly attributable to the hard and diligent work of Greg and his team is realising competent staffing for our restaurant and function venue. Through his direct involvement we were able to secure the catering services of a creative catering organisation, benefiting the club from day one. Our boating season this year has also been invigorated by the attention of the Rear Commodore John Zammit, we have had some of the best attendances this year in all our boating event with 18 boats being the record for the RVMYC regatta and 16 in the Centenary trophy, with the club taking out honours in all inter-club competitions. His commitment to boating has also seen the establishment of the 'junior skills program', a first for a boating club in Australia. This program will be the standard for coaching young people in boating progress and development, John has secured equipment, sponsorship, insurance and navigated through all the red tape to implement this initiative.

I am especially thankful to all the members working in the background, Jane McAloon for her input into the constitution and regulation of the club and our Secretary, Don Healy for his unfettered, solid support in all things legal and difficult...what an asset!

I would also like to thank our past 'Club member of the year' Ron Clark, who continually donates time, materials and effort to resolve issues around the club, but, the people who deserve my heartfelt praise are my family. Susan, Patrick and Ethan who have sacrificed their needs many times and have always been supportive of my time spent at the helm of this very special club.

It's a bittersweet moment for me, to let go and to hand over to the next Commodore. I am looking forward to enjoying my time as an 'ordinary' member but saddened that I'll not be working with such a brilliant team of good people. I see a great future for the club in the coming years, and hope that it will be as prosperous and congenial in its next 111 years.

Happy boating till next month,

Simon Mills
Past Commodore

RVMYC awards night

May is our time to honour those members who really stood out around the club. Its the time to give give praise to those who braved rough seas and inclement weather in our Nav Rallys.

This year the biggest gong went to Bob Battye and his navigator Tony Cesarello, close behind and maybe next years immanent winner was Chris and Ben Ackerman.

Eventide (RV69) topped the 2014-2015 aggregate table this time with an outstanding 640 points while Casa Verde (RV8) was second with 569, Rob Roy (RV17) 380, Pookanah (RV65) 350 and Bold Venture (RV59) with 340. See the full list below.

A special congratulations to Peter Rodger who took this years 'Club person of the year', Peter continually rose to the occasion throughout the year in his role on the works sub-committee, always leanding a hand and generally being the 'go to man' for the club. He had a very tight contest with 3 others being nominated by members of the committee. Another nomination for Ron Clark, a very popular one for Jane McAllon and her work on the constitution and Susan Mills for all her effort organising our Commodore....

Easter Cruise aboard Balboa Star and Ranui.

Rather than do a marathon run like Mark aboard "Aussie Princess" we opted for a leisurely trip over 10 days. Good Friday we just went to Mornington where Nor-west joined us about lunchtime. We all had drinks during the afternoon and watched the antics of the hire boats.

Next morning away early to Port Philip Heads where Nor-west parted company and headed for Geelong. We just sneaked out hard on Corsair Rock to avoid swimmers who were crossing the Heads from Lonsdale to Pt Nepean with heaps of support craft. It was a good run to San Remo and we managed to get a spot on the inner pontoon, but tricky berthing in 5-6 knots of tide. Had fish and chips and SCOLLOPS for tea.

Next day Sunday we were fogged in and couldn't even make out the bridge so waited for the tide to abate, then away with the help of the radar. Good run with a good swell and wind SW all the way to the Glennies. Had a quick fish and the weather freshened so went around to Refuge Cove. there was only two yachts, two runabouts (locals).

Monday we all went fishing on Balboa Star and were in close in a little Bay out of the swell when a grey Noosa Cat came around the corner and the name was in big black letters down each side "FISHERIES PATROL ". Officer Eric came aboard and threw three of our fish over the side. Luckily we had them swimming around in water so they were still alive. We got given three books on size of fish, limits and a verbal warning instead of a $400 fine! We then cruised into Sealers Cove and then into another bay where we went ashore for the usual drink.

Next day Gale warnings out for Gippsland Coast with an intense low pressure system hanging around of Gabbo Is. Big swell from the East were entering the Cove so we had to put stern anchors out to hold us into the swells. 60 knot winds east of Lakes Entrance and 5metre swells with 3-4m seas. Slapped fish fillets on the barbie for tea. Plenty of them too!!

Wednesday saw our stern

anchors doing a mighty job but very noisy with the surf crashing on the beach behind us. We went ashore for a walk but quite tricky going thru the surf in the Duck, usually sideways and nearly tipping over, amended the dates on the notice board and had a yak to some hikers.

Thursday forecast was good for Central Coast so went ashore in heavy surf to free our stern lines. Departed Refuge into big E/SE swells and to stay well out to avoid backwash. Things improved once in the lee of the Prom and we had a good run up to San Remo with SW swells and SE seas on our stern quarter. Had a look at Rhyll but waves going over the pontoon so around to Cowes and picked up moorings.

Friday we left on the ebb and had a fast bumpy run to the Schank, the behind us to the Heads. Went into the Creek and rafted at QCYC. At 1600hrs we were in the bar until stumps.

Saturday we departed Queenscliff and went around to Portarlington and rafted on the wharf. Bob Lauglin (HBYC) in Antares berthed behind us and 2 other HBYC yachts rafted on Bob. Gannet II dropped the pick. Few beers and tea at the Pub—Beautiful. Sunday we bought 5kg of mussels and ate about 3kgs for lunch! Had a great run back to the club after lunch.

A great 10 days with plenty of time to fish drink eat and be merry!!

Stuff we might need on board

SPRITE PORTABLE DRONE

Tall and slender instead of wide and flat, the Sprite Portable Drone resembles a flying Pringles can more than a mutant insect. But it's that design that makes it unique. Not only does it allow for a more rugged, water-resistant body, but it also allows it to fly using two sets of blades that fold down when not in use for maximum portability. As for technical features, it offers fully-autonomous autopilot with GPS, can navigate by waypoint or just follow you around, has a range of up to 4 miles, and shoots 1080p video from a 2-axis gimbal.

LILY CAMERA

The new Lily camera is billed as the world's first throw-and-shoot camera, but basically, it's a camera drone that you can throw in the air. Whatever you call it, this camera can fly 25 miles per hour, lasts up to 20 minutes on a charge and has range up to 100 feet. Users will be able to control it with a remote control pod. It also has a GPS that will be able to track your movements.

It's also waterproof, ultra-portable and shoots HD pictures and videos. It's also not cheap. It's $499 if you pre-order or $999 if you wait until it will be officially for sale (which could be months).

TIKO #D PRINTER

3D printing doesn't need to cost thousands of dollars. The Tiko 3D Printer is proof. By using a number of smart design decisions — including an extruded aluminum unibody enclosure and a direct-drive system — the Tiko delivers solid performance at a fraction of the cost of other 3D printers. Features include resolution of 50-250 micros, a maximum print volume of 2.27L, built-in Wi-Fi for wireless printing, an enclosed chamber to keep prints isolated from the outside environment, and support for a wide variety of different of filament materials.

Club News

The 111th Annual General Meeting

The last Quarterly an Annual General meetings were held in the club rooms on 3 June 2015.

At this meeting Commodore Simon Mills passed on his duties to the new Commodore Chris Ackerman. Other posts filled with the new administration is Vice Commodore John Zammit and Rear Commodore Paul Doherty. David Collins was elected as Crewman and Don Healy re-elected as Hon. Secretary. Thank you to Ike Ambrose and Mark Fruedenstein who stood for the positions, they the voting was close and competitive, which illustrates the high calibre and skill of members running for committee. We hope the same interest shows for the next round of elections.

Members remained positive with the direction the club was going. With the clubhouse now built, emphasis will be made to shore up finances and keeping a vigil on paying down the loan, maintaining our revenue base and providing a business plan and budget parameters for the next two years.

There are still a number of major items on the agenda ahead. Our lease with Parks Victoria in up for negotiation, we would also like to move into planning for a marina upgrade and a look into our membership categories.

These will occupy the committees time over the year, the sub-committees are now being formed and any member involvement will be greatly appreciated.

New Members

To welcome our latest batch of members the Commodore Chris Ackerman and the RVMYC Committee invite new members for a welcome drink on June 26, 2015. Please ring Jarmila at the office to RSVP.

Queens Birthday

Marina YE became the club's wintering ground on the Queens Birthday weekend, with three boats spending the weekend in the heart of Melbourne.

Members spent their time visiting Museums, restaurants and generally being tourists in their own city.

With some major rounds of football being held nearby there was lots of activity in and around South Wharf, which has developed exponentially since its establishment 5 years ago.

Members Directory

The new 2015 Members Directory is now published. Copies are available from the Club's office. Members are can pick up their first copy free, we would like to keep this directory updated regularly, so if you need another copy for your boat, car or home we ask for a donation of $5 per copy.
